Subject: Recall notice - JCB Labs

JCB LABORATORIES, LLC (JCB Labs) is recalling 4 lots of unexpired Cefuroxime single-use syringes to the hospital/clinic level. JCB Labs initiated this recall because product from these lots has the potential to be sub potent based on a re-evaluation of stability data potentially resulting in a lower dose to be administered than intended.

Cefuroxime is a semisynthetic, broad-spectrum, cephalosporin antibiotic for parenteral administration and supplied by JCB Labs in a single-use syringe dose.

In the event that impacted product is administered to a patient, the desired therapeutic results may not be obtained which may lead to increased potential for infection. To date, JCB Labs has received one customer complaint related to the impacted lots.

Please immediately check your inventory, quarantine, discontinue distribution of the affected product, and contact your wholesaler for directions.
